Application Process and Deadlines

Start planning as soon as possible! Review all of your options, meet with your Academic Advisor, and reach out to the professor leading the program.

Attend the DOC fairs.

As you look through the programs, select two backups in addition to your top choice – note that not all faculty use waitlists

Students can only apply to one DOC per term (one DOC per Summer 1 or Summer 2).

Application includes 3 essay questions and often an interview with the faculty leader.

Work with GEO for support throughout the process!

Application Tips

- Prepare your essay questions ahead of time, create in Word then copy into your GEO Application
 - 1. What are your academic and personal reasons for choosing this program?
 - 2. How will the program further your academic and career goals?
 - 3. What courses have you taken which are directly relevant to the program?
- Go to an Info Session (see GEO Calendar)
- Email Faculty, introduce yourself and express interest
- Visit a GEO Peer Advisor to learn about their experiences and how to frame your essay questions
- Interview: Practice answering the essay questions out loud to prepare concise verbal answers

Student Voice

"Unfortunately, France's approach isn't perfect. I noted in Paris that the city was just as diverse as Boston, but since arriving in Annecy last week and settling down into everyday French life, I've seen and experienced racial prejudice, just as I have at home. As examples, people have called into question my place of birth though I clearly present myself as American when first asked, people have been surprised that I don't speak very much Chinese, and I have been impromptu quizzed on my knowledge of Chinese culture during conversations. All of these are presumptions that I face in the United States as well, because universal attitudes about my appearance place me as Asian first and American second."
